Temple City Offers Free 'Open' Banners to Business Community

City is helping local businesses get the word out that they're still open.

TEMPLE CITY, CA (Sept. 7, 2020) — Temple City is open for business. And that's the message being proudly touted on complimentary banners available to the city's retailers, restaurants and other establishments.

Beginning Sept. 8, the bold, 3-by-8-foot banners will be available free of charge courtesy of the City of Temple City. The offer applies to all businesses that are still open and have physical locations within the city's commercially zoned areas.

"Temple City's business community has been hard-hit by the COVID-19 pandemic," said Mayor Tom Chavez. "It is the city council's hope that communicating the presence and resilience of our local businesses through our new 'Open' banners will serve the dual purpose of helping those businesses promote themselves and reinforcing the message that #WeGotThisTC."

To receive a free banner, businesses must be in good standing—for example, no open code enforcement cases or delinquent business licenses—and able to operate in compliance with the provisions of the county's latest public health order.

Due to limited stock, only one banner per business/address can be requested online at templecity.us/banner. Banners will be provided on a first-come, first-served basis.

The City has waived the standard $40 banner permit fee, and will allow banners to be displayed on storefronts, walls or fences until the pandemic is over or within six months of issuance (whichever comes first).
